

The Western spirit still lives...

A baby elk's first day

Native sage grouse

Hi neighbor!

Saddling up for a morning ride

Come for the fishing, stay for the tranquility

Butch Cassidy's former hideout still hasn't lost its charm

Big skies have no competition here.

A beautiful Wyoming sunset calls the end of the workday

A hoop house-style garden ensures that crops don't lose out to an early winter

CASSIDY RIVER RANCH

MEDICINE BOW, WYOMING

ON THE MAP:

The wiggly lines are contour lines, each line represents the same elevation at any point on the line.

If the lines are:

Closer together: means the land is steeper

Farther apart: means the land is more level

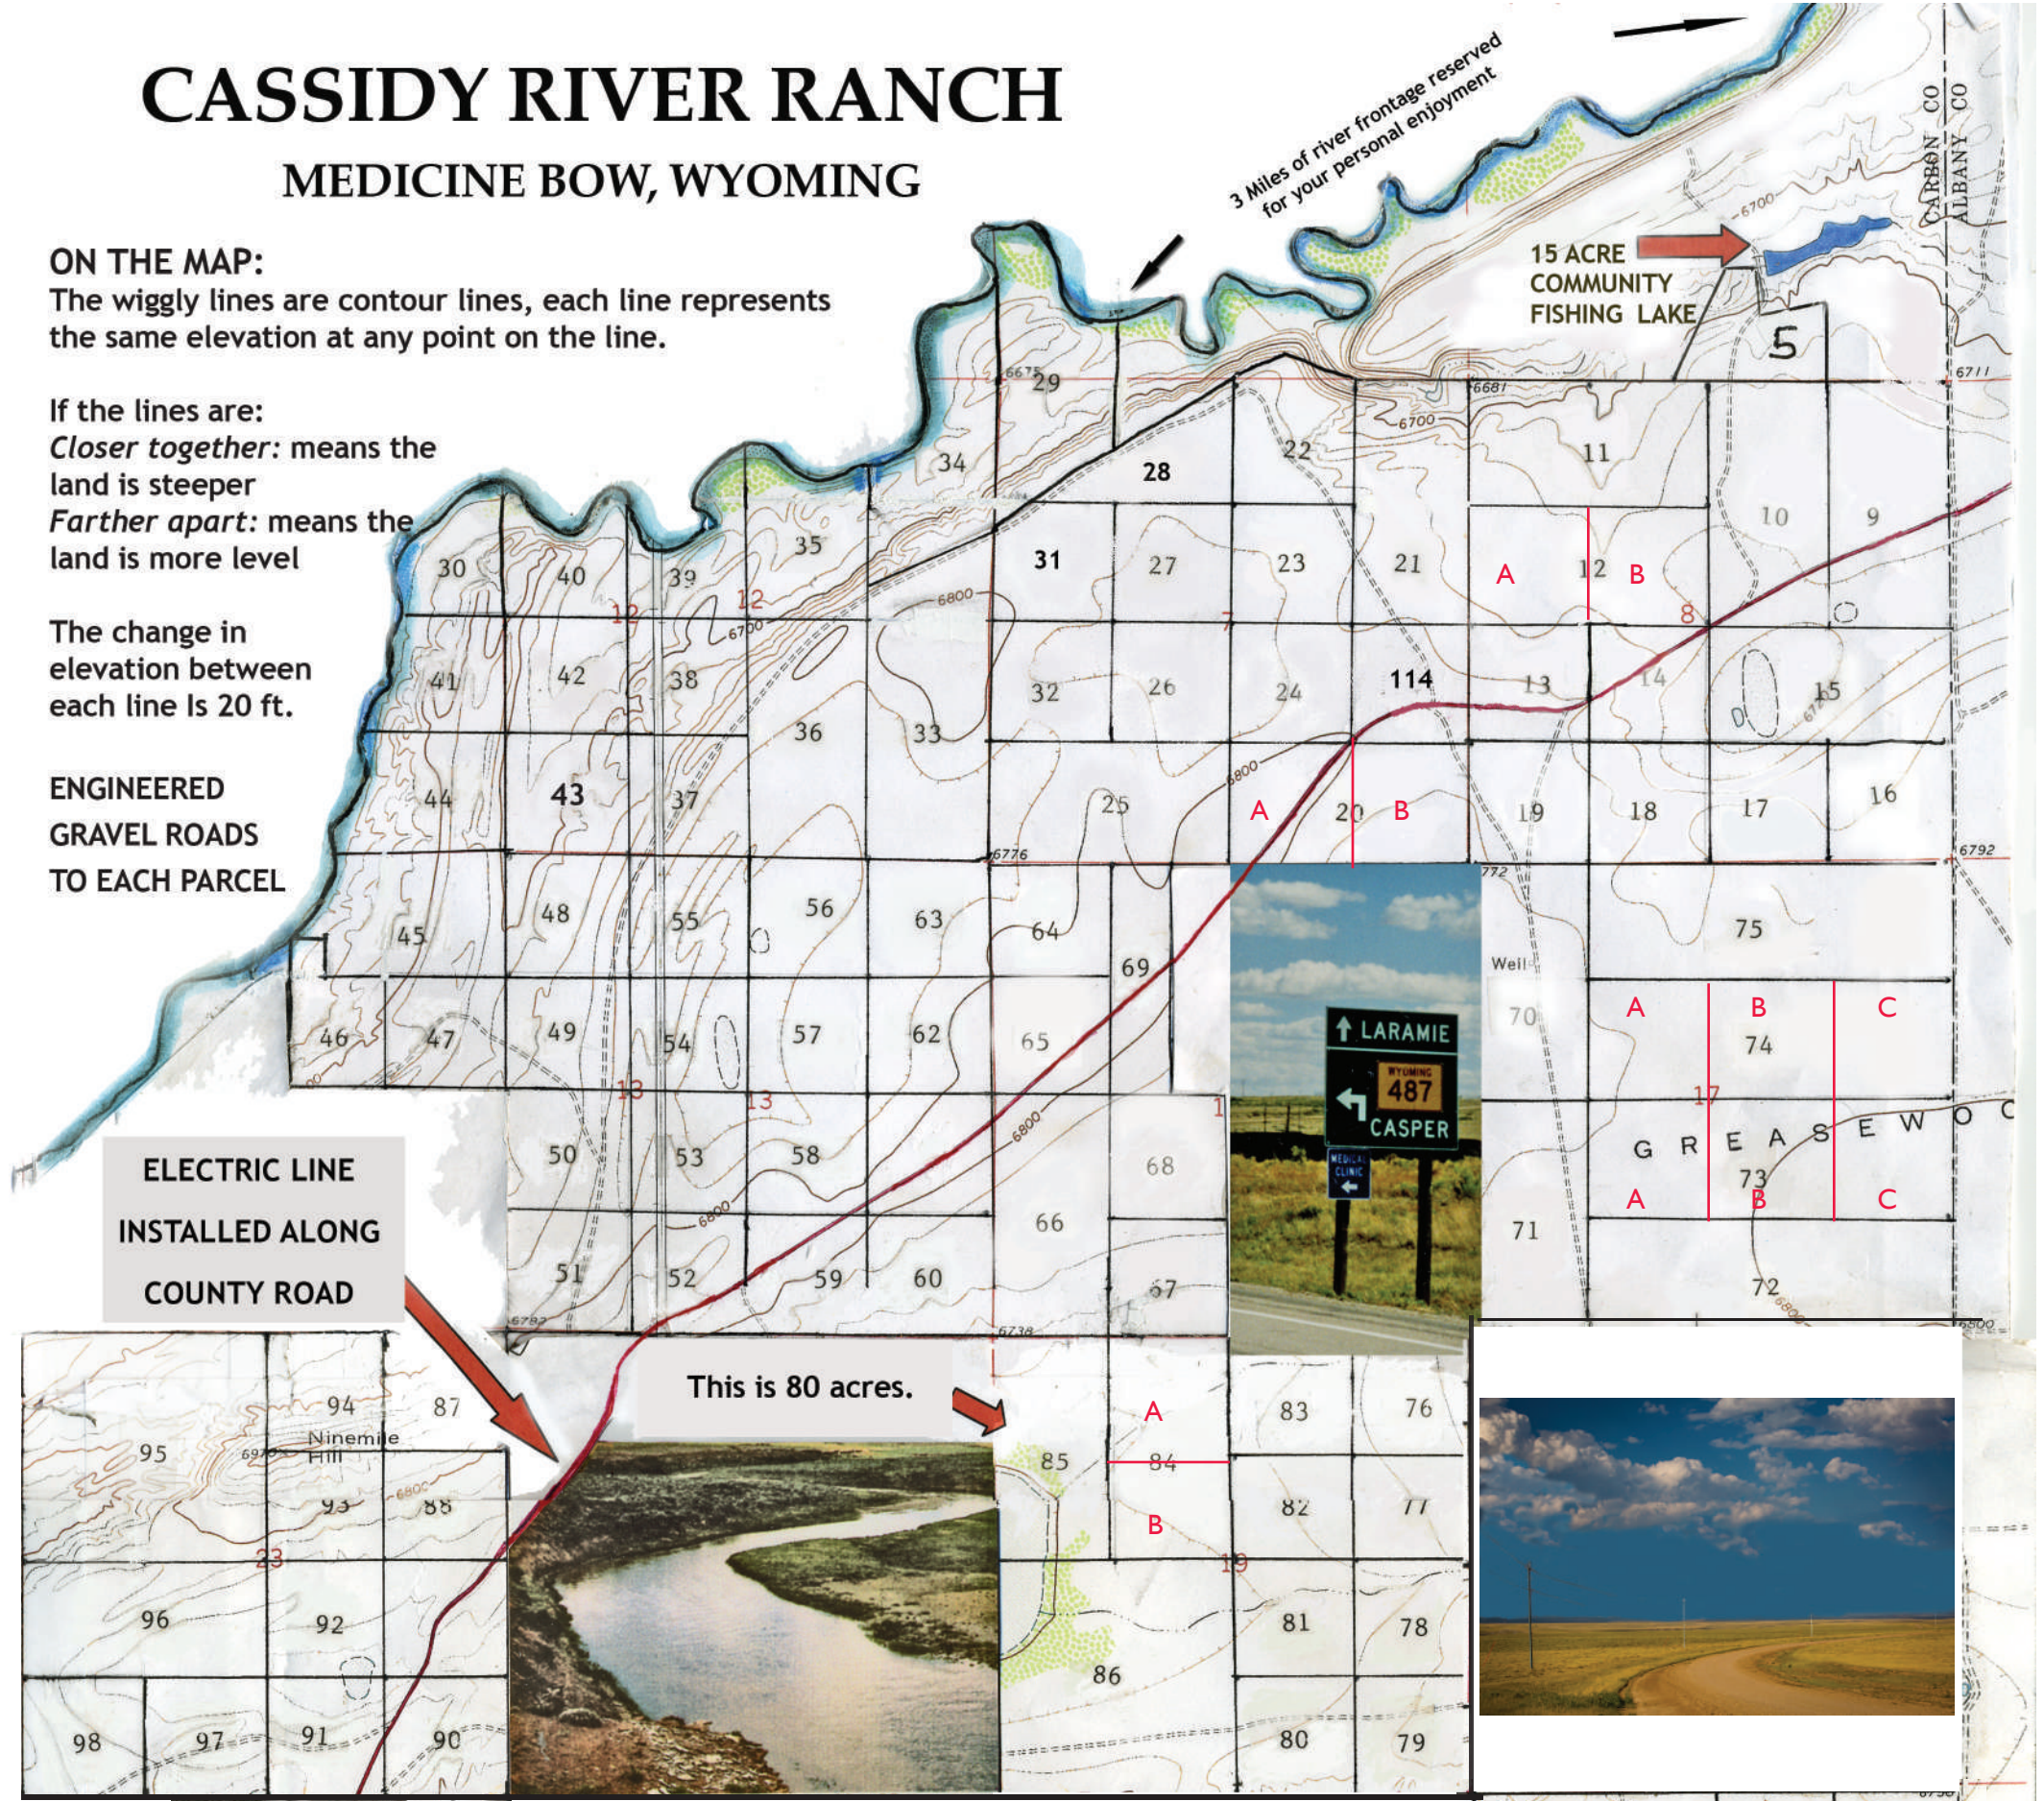

The change in elevation between each line is 20 ft.
